

Artifact Spotlight

A great variety of mourning and memorial items were produced for public consumption after the assassination and death of President Lincoln on April 15, 1865. Two such items from the museum collection are shown here. The small photograph, called a carte de vista, shows Lincoln being welcomed into Heaven by George Washington. A large ribbon was decorated with several small medals like the two shown here.